

Corporate Services

inspire extraordinary results in your people

Incentive Travel

Reward and encourage greatness

Unlike cash, a trip's value is not quickly spent and then forgotten. Give your employees the opportunity to visit places and participate in activities they would not ordinarily splurge on while increasing overall performance and productivity. Now that is a win-win experience!

Ideas: luxury resort weekend, New York City theatre package, world-class golfing or skiing trip

Staff Appreciation

Encourage loyalty and increase morale

In today's competitive environment, group travel experiences can help retain your best employees by showing them how much you value their contribution to your business. At the same time, there is nothing like a break from the board room to shake things up and reinvigorate your staff.

Ideas: sporting event package, gourmet food & wine tour, murder mystery themed weekend

Social Events

Build team spirit

When you bring staff together for an exciting and enjoyable time, you're providing them with opportunities to build relationships. Promote interaction amongst your employees - across departments or even locations - and before you know it ideas will be exchanged, confidence will be built, and your team will come back ready to hit the ground running.

Ideas: out-of-town Christmas party, gourmet cooking weekend, outdoor adventures

Why group travel?

Gain a competitive edge: Employees represent a company's greatest asset and their combined knowledge of the business cannot be duplicated. By offering innovative travel experiences, you will not only reduce turnover but attract top talent as well.

Unlock hidden potential: By engaging staff in new ways, barriers and defenses are lowered and a free flowing exchange of ideas can occur. Organic knowledge transfer from senior to junior employees is encouraged and staff is motivated to reach new levels of productivity or sales. Your return is so much more than what money alone could buy.

Establish and promote company values and goals: This is not a generic travel package that anybody could purchase. Rather it's a unique, branded experience created for your people. Get your message across while you have their undivided attention.

Why JK Tours?

No hassles and no wasted resources: One phone call and one bill. Leave the details, the logistics and the headaches to us while you get on with your business.

Experience and knowledge: We see group travel as an investment and it's our job to make sure you get a good return. That's where our background in business management and our experience in the travel industry give us a unique advantage. By assessing your needs and objectives, we can customize a travel experience that will give you the maximum "bang for your buck."

On-site management and supervision: We are right there with you every step of the way. Fully escorted trips mean a higher level of service and a guaranteed standard of care.
